Victims' Rights

Victims have the right to be treated with dignity and respect. As a victim of crime or a family member of a victim, you have many rights throughout the criminal justice process, some of which are listed below. These rights are yours, but for many of them, you must request, or complete paperwork before they will be honored. Victims and survivors have the right to:

- Be informed of the status of their cases, including investigation, arrest, and prosecution of the suspects.
- Have your names kept confidential if you are victims of sexual assault, domestic violence, child abuse, stalking, or a hate crime.
- Have a support person in court when you testify.
- Receive court orders telling defendants to stop harming or harassing them.
- Reasonable notice of all court proceedings.
- Attend all court proceedings.
- Speak to the prosecutor.
- Be heard in court if something is happening that is affecting your rights.
- Tell the judge about the crime's impact on you or your family at the time of sentencing.
- The return of your property.
- Have the judge order restitution for all crime-related losses when the defendant is convicted.
- Be notified of all post-sentencing matters including appeal status, parole hearings and/or release dates, and to participate in all parole hearings. A victim services representative can assist in requesting these notifications. For notification, you need to complete a CDCR 1707 form.
- Be notified if the defendant is released from Los Angeles County jail custody or California State Prison.

For Jails: Victim Information and Notification Everyday (VINE) provides automatic notification to victims who have registered when a suspect is released from custody. Call (877) VINE-4-LA ((877) 846-3452) to register for notification. Victims must re-register if the defendant is sentenced to state prison.

For Prison: To receive notification about anyone incarcerated at a California State Prison, CDCR's 1707 form must be completed. This form can be downloaded or completed online at this website: cdcr.ca.gov/victim-services/application/.

Additional information on victims' constitutional rights is available in the Marsy's Law pamphlet: da.lacounty.gov/marsys-law.

Direct Victim Services

The District Attorney's Bureau of Victim Services is available in courthouses and police stations to assist victims and their families. Victim services representatives assist victims with emergency needs, counseling resources and referrals, restitution orders, return of personal property, orientation to the criminal justice system, court escort and support, and information on the status of filed cases. Victim services representatives assist victims of violence or the threat of violence in applying for compensation for crime-related losses from the California Victim Compensation Board (CalVCB).

Victim services representatives are specially trained to help child victims as well as elder victims, victims of domestic violence and sexual assault, and victims with disabilities. Representatives are available to assist victims in several languages. All services are free. Please call the Bureau of Victim Services at (800) 380-3811.

Information for Undocumented Victims and Survivors

Victims are not required to be in legal immigration status to request services. Under federal law, certain undocumented crime victims who have suffered substantial physical or mental abuse are eligible to apply for the U nonimmigrant status visa (U Visa). For a list of local nonprofit agencies that assist victims with the U visa and T visa application process, please visit da.lacounty.gov/victims/uvisa/uvisa-tvisa-assistance-agencies.

California Victim Compensation Board

Who may be eligible for compensation?

- Victims of crimes of violence or threats of violence, whether or not a criminal case is filed.
- Family members or cohabitants of the victim, including those dependent on the victim for financial support.
- Anyone who pays the funeral or burial expenses of a deceased victim.
- A qualified primary caretaker of a minor victim.
- Child witnesses to any crime of violence.

Requirements:

- An application must be filed within seven years of the crime.
- Victims must not have participated in the crime.
- Victims must cooperate with law enforcement and prosecution.

Covered Expenses:

- Medical, dental, and hospital expenses.
- Mental health counseling.
- Relocation.
- Funeral and burial costs.
- Crime scene cleanup.
- Loss of wages or support.
- Job retraining and rehabilitation.
- Home security installation.

To receive reimbursement, the CalVCB requires losses to be crime related. Reimbursement amounts may vary, for updated information, please visit victims.ca.gov. Other sources of reimbursement, such as insurance, must be used first. CalVCB cannot pay any expenses incurred while a victim is on parole, probation, or post-release community supervision for a violent felony, or while incarcerated or required to register as a sex offender. For more information on the CalVCB, call toll-free (800) 777-9229. You also may access program information at victims.ca.gov or by writing to CalVCB, P.O. Box 3036, Sacramento, CA 95812-3036.

The District Attorney's Bureau of Victim Services can assist crime victims with applying for services from CalVCB. For more information on applications that have been submitted or to follow up on an application, please call the Bureau of Victim Services' Claims Verification Unit at (800) 492-5944.
